PROFILE

I am a Junior Developer looking to progress my learning and knowledge in a software development role within the London tech industry. Makers Academy's bootcamp experience has made me adopt a growth mindset and allowed me to better think outside of the box, adding this to key skills learnt in previous jobs such as my emotional intelligence, adaptability and resilience has given me a broad range of ability's to bring to any team. I tracked my learning over the 4 months with a Blog you can find here.

I decided Makers was the best place to start my journey after recommendations from friends and the commitment Makers make towards teaching good practices and ensuring your focus is not just on your code but also on yourself as an individual as well as on the people around you for greater success for everyone.
